

Woodturning Lathe for Sale

Top quality wood turning lathe with rotatable headstock for bowl turning

This is a one of a kind piece of machinery. When we bought our house a workshop full of tools came with it and this lathe was included. It has no makers mark but the guy we bought it from was a very keen woodturner and said it had been made by a well-known manufacturer of lathes (I can't remember who) as a prototype.

I had always thought this would be the start of a new hobby but in 11 years I think I've used it maybe a dozen times. Enough to know that wood turning isn't really my cup of tea so I'd like to free up some space and possibly get a small metalwork lathe instead.

The Lathe

This is a single phase machine with a 1500 watt motor. It's approximately 1 metre between centres. It has a rotatable headstock and a bowl turning fixture behind the headstock so if you want to turn large diameter pieces it'll happily do that (see the picture left). The stand is rock solid as you can probably tell from the photo above.

Accessories

The lathe comes with the usual stuff you might expect:

- A four jaw chuck
- Two revolving centres (one hollow)
- A couple of drill chucks

Plus a couple of other things you can see in the photo but I don't know the names of.

There's also a few bowl blanks that you can see stacked on the lathe in the picture overleaf (three ash and one purple heart).

I've got a collection of 21 various scrapers and gouges etc which are for separate sale but if you wanted them with the lathe I'm sure we could come to an agreeable arrangement.

Notes

There are two small, easily fixable faults that I'm aware of:

- The tailstock tool locking handle has come off (you can see that in the photo at the top overleaf) but you can buy these from place like Axminster Power Tools
- The start button is a bit temperamental sometimes – probably just a loose connection so I'll try to sort that out before I sell it.
